

Digital learning Partner

Providence University's collaboration with the Ministry of Education on the "Digital Learning Partner Program" has now entered its seventh year. PU has connected over 100 Providence University students and 774 kids with ten rural schools, including Lishan Elementary and Junior High School in Taichung City, Dongming Elementary School in Dajia District, and Hexing Elementary School in Zhongpu Township, Haomei Elementary School in Budai Township, and Gengliao Elementary School in Liujiao Township in Chiayi County. The program supports over 590 rural students. Providence University has tailored one-on-one remote tutoring based on the needs of these students, creating a diverse digital learning environment that helps them academically, boosts their confidence, and broadens their learning horizons.

The "Digital Learning Partner Program", which operates via remote learning, hosts a face-to-face gathering once every semester. This year, the event was held on the Providence University campus and incorporated the university's promotion of pickleball, an exciting and easy-to-learn sport. PU also designed an "on-campus reality puzzle-solving treasure hunt", transforming the traditional campus tour into an adventurous journey full of challenges and learning opportunities!
