

Exploring Taichung School Program – Free courses leading to certificate

Providence University, in collaboration with the Education Bureau of Taichung City Government, has introduced the "Exploring Taichung" free elective course program, designed to encourage high school students to take cross-school elective courses. The courses are designed with hands-on activities and experiments to inspire students' passion for learning. By promoting interschool collaboration and sharing PU's educational resources, Providence University aims to cultivate students' independent learning skills and expand their academic perspectives across various age groups.

Students who successfully complete these courses receive certificates, and those who accumulate 18 hours of coursework are awarded a complete certificate from the Education Bureau of Taichung City Government. In the 2023 academic year, PU offered 6 courses with a total of 116 participants, and in the 2024 academic year, 6 courses were offered with 77 participants.
